Washington will be the news chapter, published in another column, which makes plain the illegal action of the Secretary of War as to track extensions deemed necessary by the Pennsylvania ratiroad. Falling in a determined effort to secure these privileges from Congress the company appealed to Secretary Elkins, and he, disregarding both the plain law and the desired permit. So confident of his support were the Pennsylvania road's authorities that they even went beyond the limits of a very broad ermit and elevated the tracks on the Long bridg sumsway to such a height and on such a solid sundation that a freshet can hardly fail to be nore disastrous than any of its predecessors, of direct violation of law and only for the purrealroad engineers have caused hundreds of so of stone to be dumped around the sa, and now the increased tidal elevant thus caused is to be met by an bankment which will add several inches to muddy water that may be looked for or and all trespassers on improvements made under authority of river and harbor legisla-tion, but the Supreme Court of the United States has declared that nothing less than an act of Congress is legally nt to authorize the laying of even a rail

Fully awake to the dangers which beset the government from treepassers the War Department has proceeded against a few merchants who have set up establishments on the edge of the reclaimed Potomac flats—establishments which threaten no public peril—and at the same time the department grants permission to the Pennsylvania Emircad Company to creet and maintain a barricade which may add a million Sc. It is yet to be seen whether the President of the United States will consider this kind of dis-crimination a proud record of his administra-tion of a government of the people, by the peo-ple, for the people; whether Congress will assent to this executive surpration of its legal func-tions and whether the Supreme Court will sub-mit to this reversal of its decrees. Even if it should be held that the railroad did racks to the Long bridge by the exercise of its pution in the original construction of the road, here would be no reason or excuse for double-racking now if the railroad had not illegally readened at the expense of a public park the anseway portion of Long bridge.

The extension of the classified civil service is

The extension of the classified civil service is to manifestly necessary, whatever administra-tion or party be in power, that it is hardly sorth while to discuss whether a partisen ad-antage is obtained or not by such extension. When Mr. Harrison's administration came in it was confronted by a regulation of the service doubted by his predecessor providing for the lowed for the regulation to go into effect. It now suggested that Mr. Harrison's adminissimilar logacy of extension in the two bureaus of engraving and printing and the government printing office. There can be no serious objection urged to such a movement if the rules providing examination shall be those which require particular efficiency in the arts used in the two bureaus, with only such preliminary tests as to general knowledge as should be required of any printer, engraver, &c., in private business.

Local street car authorities would do a popu-or and proper thing if they take advantage of se series of experiments just concluded by a saion in Boston. This commission test the reliability of various devices which had for th moving street cars operated by mechanical motors and decided to recommend the adoption of a simple safeguard which is made available by meanly putting on the brake. The details of this device were stated at some details of this device were stated at some length in The Stan of Safurday last. If England's interest in the election has been as feverish as it was pictured there is every reason to expect that the British lion will be down with nervous prostration presently.

The state of Washington has three hundred Indian voters. Their predominant style of politics is not known, but it can be safely as-sected that they are not prohibitionists.
